

GLACIER DAM BREAK FLOODS AREA IN INDIA

VAST SECTIONS THREATENED WITH INUNDATION

MILLIONS OF GALLONS OF WATER POURING THROUGH BREAK

THOUSANDS OF RESIDENTS ALL THROUGH INDUS VALLEY FLEEING TO SAFETY

By G. M. DYCE-KEELE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Karachi, India, Aug. 14. — Vast sections of India bordering on the Indus river threatened with inundation today as millions of gallons of water poured through the area after a glacier dam had burst.

Attock, Chhachh and Ladakh are among the more populous cities in the Nowshera and Kashmir districts facing floods from this great torrent.

The thousands of residents through the Indus valley are fleeing to nearby mountains. Hospitals, bazaars and public buildings were evacuated under military supervision. In some of the villages panics were reported as the natives, terrorized by the disaster, scurried to escape.

Throughout the night bonfires were burned through the entire district, sending a picturesque glow over the area and warning the natives of impending disaster. There is no telegraph system through the area and this was the only way in which the alarm could be spread.

The disaster started when a glacier-dam on a tributary of the Indus, about 140 miles beyond Leh in Kashmir, burst Sunday night. The dam was holding back waters that had been pent up for several weeks in what was the bed of the river Shyock.

The glacier had formed a lake, 17,000 feet up in the Korakoram mountain range. The lake was nine miles long and 300 feet deep while the great restraining glacier was about 1,200 feet thick and more than 1,000 feet wide.

The first break found the pent up waters smashing down the mountain side onto the calm and peaceful Indus valley, and roaring along through the fertile fields that form on each side of the long river.

Thousands of residents began to flee hurriedly, leaving their belongings behind in their haste to escape death. The speed with which the water moved forecast that the Nubra and Shadud districts probably would be destroyed within a few days. Attock probably will be reached Thursday.

Last night it developed that the Nowshera district additionally was threatened and that the greatest danger existed. The Kabul and the Indus rivers cross in this area, and it seemed likely that Chhachh would be destroyed by Friday.

Panics were reported from several of the small Indus valley cities as the natives sought to escape the on-rushing water.

All the resources possible have been put forward in an effort to prevent a great loss of life.

Simla, British India, Aug. 14. — Airplanes from Peshawar and Rasalpur were sent out today to warn natives in the Indus valley of the flood rushing down from the mountains of Kashmir, where the breaking of a glacier released a mighty wall of water down towards the plains.

It was believed the timely warning of the planes, augmented by the native signal fires that have been blazing on the hillsides for two days, would save many lives.

Authorities believed the damage would be made less by the low stage of the Indus, which is far below normal level due to the recent drought.

Attock, about 500 miles down the river from Leh, where the flood started, and the nearest large town in its direct path, was believed safe. It will be nearly two more days before the water reaches Attock, and it is hoped that the flood will have spent some of its force by that time.

MURDER OF MISS JENNIE CONSTANCE AT EVANSTON NEARS SOLUTION

DAVID SHANKS ADMITS HE COMMITTED CRIME FOR SAKE OF ROBBERY

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 14.—(UP)—A complete confession to the murder of Miss Jennie Constance, 42-year-old post-graduate student of Northwestern University, was in the hands of Evanston police today.

David Shanks, negro bootblack, admitted killing the woman because the tips he received at his shining stand did not furnish him enough money, and he resorted to robbery.

A small bit of black ribbon with two gold clasps provided the slender clue by which the murder was solved. It was the band of a wrist watch worn by Miss Constance on the night a week ago when she was beaten to death with an iron pipe as she was returning home from the university library.

Police Chief William O. Freeman made an inspection of the murder scene and found the small black band. It ostensibly had been torn away from the watch and thrown carelessly to the ground.

Yesterday a 19-year-old youth entered an Evanston jewelry establishment and asked the watchmaker to change the initials on a wrist watch. When he returned for it later in the day he was confronted by five detectives with drawn revolvers.

The youth, Lebert Bastian, told them he had bought the watch from a negro who worked in his father's shine parlor.

Shanks was arrested immediately and admitted his guilt as soon as he was confronted with the evidence.

"I needed money," he said, "I never made more than eight dollars a week here."

Authorities here declare that the lower rate in the ninth district, comprising Minnesota, North and South Dakota and parts of Wisconsin and Michigan, will facilitate the moving of this year's farm crops.

Herbert Hoover Lays Out a Tentative Stump Program for Republican Presidential Campaign

TO MAKE DOZEN OR MORE BIG SPEECHES SOON

DISCUSS SUBJECTS WHICH HE TREATED ONLY LIGHTLY IN ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

WATERWAY DEVELOPMENT, AVIATION, HIGHWAYS, IRRIGABLE LANDS, ETC.

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 14.—Herbert Hoover has laid out a tentative stump program for his republican presidential campaign, under which he will discuss in his dozen or more big speeches the subjects which he treated only lightly in his acceptance speech.

The nominee intends to take up in these prospective speeches the subjects of waterway development, highways, aviation, irrigable lands, merchant marine, promotion of education, more effective administration of criminal laws, the relation of government to public utilities and railroads, the primary necessity of conservation of natural resources and measures for further economy and reduction of taxes.

Due to development of the radio it now is practically impossible for presidential candidates to make the same speech twice. In former campaigns, candidates have been known to pick one good speech and deliver it throughout the campaign with only minor variations to suit the locality in which the speech is delivered.

Hoover intends to avoid repetition so far as possible and so conduct his campaign that when he is through his speeches might be printed in book form as one big speech which included everything he has to say about the issues as he sees them.

He will amplify his farm views at West Branch, Iowa, his birth place, a week from today. He will take up the prohibition question in an October speech in the east.

The Krassin was instructed in rush repairs to her prow, damaged recently in the ice, and to pick up Chukhnovsky. The ship then will proceed to search for Amundsen and the party of Renato Alessandrini, lost when the Italia crashed.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN IS TO BE GENTLEMANLY

REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC LEADERS AGREE ON PRO-CEDURE

RASKOB PRAISES "TEMPERED" TONE OF HOOVER ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

New York, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Republican and democratic leaders have agreed on a gentlemanly presidential campaign.

When asked what he thought of Herbert Hoover's acceptance speech, Chairman John J. Raskob of the democratic national committee, surprised political reporters by praising its "tempered" tone and letting pass an opportunity to criticize its treatment of issues.

The pronouncements of party leaders are addressed to the rank and file of political workers. Presidential candidates are aloof these days, mere figures at the far end of vast stadiums and auditoriums, voices over the radio between grand opera selections and stringed quarters.

The red fire has vanished from the streets. Vituperation of the old orator is heard no more from the street corner. But there still is the political campaigner who makes six or seven towns in a day and talks from the rear seat of an automobile. It is to these that the appeal for a high plane campaign is addressed.

30,000 TRAINMEN, CONDUCTORS ARE VOTING ON STRIKE

Chicago, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Declining proposals to arbitrate a new wage dispute, 30,000 trainmen and conductors of western railroads convened sectional meetings in various cities today to vote on a strike.

Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Order of Railway Conductors have been seeking a 7 1/2 per cent increase in wages.

The managers' conference committee, representing the railroads, offered the employees the desired increase if they would agree to the abolishing of rules restricting the use of two locomotives to a train and limiting the number of cars which may be hauled by two locomotives. If this was not acceptable, the managers offered as an alternative a 6 1/2 per cent increase.

The brotherhoods declined to arbitrate the proposals.

GOV. AL SMITH COMPLETING HIS ACCEPTANCE TALK

SPEECH WAS REALLY PRACTICALLY FINISHED AT 2 A. M. TODAY

LAST OF "COPY" WILL BE SENT TO PRINTER BEFORE NIGHT

By PERCY B. SCOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14.—With one of his most important conferences of the year behind him—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential candidate, devoted his time today to completing his speech of acceptance.

The speech was practically finished at 2 A. M. today. The last of the "copy" will be sent to the printer before night and it is expected that distribution will be made to newspapers and press associations tomorrow.

It is understood that the speech will run 6,000 to 7,000 words and that it will take about an hour to deliver. Smith will devote a great deal of time to farm relief and prohibition. The next most important topic to be discussed, it is believed, will be reorganization of and honesty in the federal government.

So far the governor and his advisors have maintained absolute silence on the contents of the speech. Work on the document has been carried on at the executive mansion at night.

Smith and his friends today expressed themselves as satisfied at the outcome of the conference he had yesterday with nine farm leaders from middle western and southern states headed by George N. Peek of Moline, Ill., an ally of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, in the republican pre-convention campaign.

The farm leaders and the governor all insisted that politics had not been discussed by them, but that they had devoted their whole time to talking over the subject of farm relief, the leaders imparting their ideas to the governor, rather than asking him for his.

None of the leaders would disclose whether they intended to support the Smith candidacy as a result of their talk.

HIGH WINDS CAUSE DAMAGE OF $1,000,000

WORST THREAT IS TO NORTHWEST COAST, ANOTHER STORM APPROACHING

EXPECTED TO STRIKE AT TAMPA, CEDAR KEYS, NORTH TO MOBILE, ALA.

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 14.—(UP)—Tropical disturbances continued to threaten disaster to part of Florida today after almost a week of high winds in which upwards of $1,000,000 in damage was done.

The worst threat was to the west coast, where, according to reports, a heavy northeast storm is approaching. This storm should strike some time this morning in the district of Tampa, Cedar Keys and as far as Mobile, Ala.

The new storm will reach gale proportions, the weather bureau advised.

The east coast apparently has escaped new damage. Rain and high winds, which drove the people from Miami streets late Monday, subsided during the early evening and there was no new threats. A terrific storm struck Havana during the early evening, but it is not believed it will whip across to strike Florida.

Already some effects of the storm—reportedly moving up out of the Gulf of Mexico—were reported along the west coast. Storm warnings have been posted for the entire territory north of Tampa and residents have taken precautions against high winds.

At St. Petersburg last night the wind had a velocity of 30 miles an hour, but reports said the wind would reach greater speed during the morning. Coast guardsmen were held in readiness to give aid.

Punta Rassa reported a 65 miles an hour gale with little damage.

Meanwhile 75 passengers of the Munson liner Munamar, who were stranded when the vessel went aground near Abaco Island while the high tropical winds were blowing, were safe aboard the liner Lady Cordeaux and enroute to Nassau, Bahamas Islands, today. They were removed last night.

The Munamar still is stranded on the shoals but an effort will be made to remove her.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 14.—One person was reported drowned, many houses unroofed and considerable other damage done in a heavy wind and rain storm late Monday in the vicinity of the Guantanamo naval base.

Reports said that a total of 11 inches of rain had fallen at Guantanamo and that the wind there had reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour at times.

One person was reported to have drowned in the village of Jamaica, while many head of cattle were drowned when the Mayari river overflowed.

All advices indicated the path of the storm was narrow.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 14.—Rains and 20 to 30 mile an hour winds were general from Mobile east to Apalachicola at 7 A. M. today.

The weather bureau reported only the fringe of a tropical disturbance moving north in the gulf was likely to strike Mobile, placing its center eastward.

At Apalachicola, however, the telephone operator said only a light wind was blowing although the rainfall was heavy at 7 o'clock.

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 14.—A tropical storm, greatly diminished in force, moved on the western strip of Florida, from the Gulf of Mexico today, after sweeping the west coast of the peninsula with high winds and heavy rains.

The disturbance, of far less intensity than the hurricane of last week—which caused damage in the millions—held small shipping in port, uprooted trees and disrupted wire communications along the west coast. Rivers were swollen from the heavy rains but no extensive damage was reported done.

Floods caused trouble in south central Florida near Lake Okeechobee where rivers and streams were out of their banks, lowlands flooded, highways impassable, and scores of families isolated.

GLACIER DAM BREAK FLOODS AREA IN INDIA

MILLIONS OF GALLONS OF WATER
POURING THROUGH

THOUSANDS OF RESIDENTS ALL

FLEEING TO SAFETY

By G. M. DYCE-KEELE

Karachi, India, Aug. 14. — Vast sections of India bordering on the Indus river threatened with inundation today as millions of gallons of water poured through the area after a glacier dam had burst.

Attack, Chhachh and Ladakh are among the more populous cities in the Nowshera and Kashmir districts facing floods from this great torrent. The thousands of residents through the Indus valley are fleeing to nearby mountains. Hospitals, bazaars and public buildings were evacuated under military supervision. The disaster started when a glacier-dam on a tributary of the Indus, about 140 miles beyond Leh in Kashmir, burst Sunday night. The dam was holding back waters that had been pent up for several weeks in what was the bed of the river Shayock.

The glacier had formed a lake, 17,000 feet up in the Korakoram mountain range. The lake was nine miles long and 300 feet deep while the great restraining glacier was about 1,200 feet thick and more than 1,000 feet wide.

The first break found the pent up waters smashing down the mountain side onto the calm and peaceful Indus valley, and roaring along through the fertile fields that form on each side of the long river.

Thousands of residents began to flee hurriedly, leaving their belongings behind in their haste to escape death. The speed with which the water moved forecast that the Nubra and Shaddu districts probably would be destroyed within a few days. Attack probably will be reached Thursday.

Last night it developed that the Nowshera district additionally was threatened and that the greatest danger existed. The Kabul and the Indus rivers cross in this area, and it seemed likely that Chhachh would be destroyed by Friday.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14. —With one of his most important conferences of the year behind him—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, democratic presidential candidate, devoted his time today to completing his speech of acceptance.

The speech was practically finished at 2 A. M. today. The last of the "copy" will be sent to the printer before night and it is expected that distribution will be made to newspapers and press associations tomorrow.

It is understood that the speech will run 6,000 to 7,000 words and that it will take about an hour to deliver. Smith will devote a great deal of time to farm relief and prohibition. The next most important topic to be discussed, it is believed, will be reorganization of and honesty in the federal government.

So far the governor and his advisors have maintained absolute silence on the contents of the speech. Work on the document has been carried on at the executive mansion at night.

Smith and his friends today expressed themselves as satisfied at the outcome of the conference he had yesterday with nine farm leaders from middle western and southern states headed by George N. Peek of Moline, Ill., an ally of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, in the republican pre-convention campaign.

The farm leaders and the governor all insisted that politics had not been discussed by them, but that they had devoted their whole time to talking over the subject of farm relief, the leaders imparting their ideas to the governor, rather than asking him for his.

None of the leaders would disclose whether they intended to support the Smith candidacy as a result of their talk.

HIGH WINDS CAUSE DAMAGE OF $1,000,000

WORST THREAT IS TO NORTH-WEST COAST, ANOTHER
STORM APPROACHING

EXPECTED TO STRIKE AT TAMPA,
CEDAR KEYS, NORTH TO MOBILE, ALA.

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 14. —(UP)—Tropical disturbances continued to threaten disaster to part of Florida today after almost a week of high winds in which upwards of $1,000,000 in damage was done.

The worst threat was to the west coast, where, according to reports, a heavy northeast storm is approaching. This storm should strike some time this morning in the district of Tampa, Cedar Keys and as far as Mobile, Ala.

The new storm will reach gale proportions, the weather bureau advises said.

The east coast apparently has escaped new damage. Rain and high winds, which drove the people from Miami streets late Monday, subsided during the early evening and there was no new threats. A terrific storm struck Havana during the early evening, but it is not believed it will whip across to strike Florida.

Already some effects of the storm—reportedly moving up out of the Gulf of Mexico—were reported along the west coast. Storm warnings have been posted for the entire territory north of Tampa and residents have taken precautions against high winds.

At St. Petersburg last night the wind had a velocity of 30 miles an hour, but reports said the wind would reach greater speed during the morning. Coast guardsmen were held in readiness to give aid.

Punta Rasa reported a 65 miles an hour gale with little damage.

Meanwhile 75 passengers of the Munster liner Munamar, who were stranded when the vessel went aground near Abaco Island while the high tropical winds were blowing, were safe aboard the liner Lady Cordeaux and enroute to Nassau, Bahamas Islands, today. They were removed last night.

The Munster still is stranded on the shoals but an effort will be made to remove her.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 14.—One person was reported drowned, many houses unroofed and considerable other damage done in a heavy wind and rain storm late Monday in the vicinity of the Guantanamo naval base.

Reports said that a total of 11 inches of rain had fallen at Guantanamo and that the wind there had reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour at times.

One person was reported to have drowned in the village of Jamaica, while many head of cattle were drowned when the Mayari river overflowed.

All advices indicated the path of the storm was narrow.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 14.—Rains and 20 to 30 mile an hour winds were general from Mobile east to Apalachicola at 7 A. M. today.

The weather bureau reported only the fringe of a tropical disturbance moving north in the gulf was likely to strike Mobile, placing its center eastward.

At Apalachicola, however, the telephone operator said only a light wind was blowing although the rainfall was heavy at 7 o'clock.

Tampa, Fla., Aug. 14.—A tropical storm, greatly diminished in force, moved on the western strip of Florida, from the Gulf of Mexico today, after sweeping the west coast of the peninsula with high winds and heavy rains.

The disturbance, of far less intensity than the hurricane of last week—which caused damage in the millions—held small shipping in port, uprooted trees and disrupted wire communications along the west coast. Rivers were swollen from the heavy rains but no extensive damage was reported done.

Floods caused trouble in south central Florida near Lake Okeechobee where rivers and streams were out of their banks, lowlands flooded, highways impassable, and scores of families isolated.

This delightfully domestic picture shows President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State, his wife and their two children in the garden of their home at Beechpark, Templeogue, Dublin.

Asked what his initials were at the N. P. depot yesterday W. E. Brockway retorted that they were "W. E." but they ought to be "W. S." which would mean Willie Smart. It was not five minutes after this that he put his wife on the M. & I. chair car, when she wanted to go to Pillager. All the trains pulled out except the M. & I. and when Mrs. Brockway discovered them pushing this particular car around the yards she commenced to make inquiries and found she was on the wrong train and had missed her trip. When she walked into M. J. Reilly's store a few minutes later one could have bought W. E. Brockway for thirteen cents.

Carpenters will start within the next few days to rearrange the room in the woman's building and to build the tables and other equipment necessary for the show.

A revised premium list will be completed soon for the flower show and a number of cash prizes will be awarded to the winners of the various classes. A great many Pequot people have signified their intention of entering the show. It is hoped that Dr. G. I. Badeaux and Dr. L. F. Hawkins of Brainerd can be obtained to judge the exhibits.

A certain preacher's theme was the parable of the tares among the wheat, and he dwelt on the intermixture of good and evil in the church. "This may seem strange to us," he said. "But we must not forget that there was a Ham in the Ark." Then, evidently thinking that this might sound rather odd, and be open to misconception, he corrected himself and added, "I mean, of course, a human Ham."

From the French

The expression "To sleep like a top" is a translation of the French expression "Dormir comme une taupe," which means to "sleep like a mole." The "taupe" has been carried over into the English.

MARATHON DANCERS REDUCED TO FIVE

Smiling Mrs. Gladys Houston Is Now Lone Brainerd Survivor in Contest

ENTER 400TH HOUR TODAY

"Cully" Rodman Drops Out Due to Grogginess and Sore Feet This Morning

Smiling Mrs. Gladys Houston was the lone Brainerd survivor of the marathon dance at Lum Park today when her partner "Cully" Rodman also of Brainerd dropped out of the race at 7 o'clock this morning. The dancers were reduced to five today as the dancers entered their 400th hour at 4 p. m.

Redman dropped out this morning due to grogginess and sore feet. He was just "all in" on his feet. Lady No. 5 was also forced to quit early today. She stopped her dancing between five and six o'clock this morning when a bad cold and lack of condition made it highly advisable for her to stop. Up until the last few days she was one of the outstanding favorites to finish the grind.

Lady No. 6 was also a victim of the last twenty-four hours. She dropped out at 3 a. m. today. She was groggy on the floor, lost her bearings, walked into the ropes and was disqualified. She had been dancing with No. 13 "The Sheik". Since she was forced off the floor No. 13 has been dancing with No. 3 lady, his sixth partner since the marathon began. He appeared to be in excellent condition today and is conceded an excellent chance of winning. "Monty" the man of couple No. 2 danced with No. 6 since he lost his own partner earlier in the week but after her fadeout this morning he teamed with the popular "Estelle" and they have many backers among the spectators.

Mrs. Houston has been dancing alone today since "Cully" Rodman dropped out this morning. She appears to be in excellent condition and apparently has a good chance to win the long race. In fact four of the five dancers still seem in excellent physical condition. Miss Ann Gruber of Minneapolis, better known as lady No. 3 is apparently the only one who seems to show the strain of 400 hours of dancing.

Last night at 11 o'clock the Breneman Bakery served the dancers an excellent lunch that seemed to revive their lagging spirits. They are expected to last for at least two or three days longer, possibly till Friday night.

The management enjoyed the patronage of a fair crowd last night. They have engaged the Northern Serenaders to play for a public dance to be given in connection with the marathon dance tomorrow night.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 14, 1928

EPOCHAL EVENT IN AMERICAN TRANSPORTATION

AN epochal event in American transportation will be observed on Monday, August 20, when for the first time regular coordinated rail and air passenger service will be inaugurated.

The fastest movement of passengers from the Pacific to the Atlantic across the nation ever in regular commercial service will be established.

Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland on the west, and New York and Washington on the east, will be the extremes geographically which will be benefited by this new service which, however, will be extended to all intermediate points.

The air link which is the key in the speed element of this transcontinental service will be between Minneapolis-St. Paul and Chicago. Nowhere in the country today is this rail-air service now coordinated as will be effected in this new service, according to E. E. Nelson, passenger traffic manager of the Northern Pacific Railway, chairman of a committee of rail and air carrier representatives who have worked out the new schedule.

A feature of the service is that an eastbound passenger from the northwest enroute to New York or Washington, for instance, will be able to save an entire business day, and a westbound passenger from New York or Washington and intermediate points to the northwest will be able to spend a large part of the business day in Chicago enroute without loss of time.

The airplane connecting with the morning trains from the Pacific coast and the northwest will make the trip to Chicago in 3½ hours, connecting with the outstanding trains for the east and south leaving Chicago just after noon. The scheduled plane will leave Chicago at 3 p. m. and arrive in ample time to connect with the outstanding trains leaving St. Paul and Minneapolis at night.

In this new service is involved rail, air, and highway motor transportation. The motor equipment will carry the passengers from the train or plane to the rail station or airport. Air-rail tickets will be sold by the railroads co-operating.

The air link will be established by the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., and the Northwest Airways, Inc. All metal 7-passenger planes equipped with 500 horsepower engines giving a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour will be used in this service, according to L. H. Brittin, vice president and general manager of the Northwest Airways.

"In this new service which is about to be inaugurated, the railroads believe they are providing to their passenger patrons, facilities which incorporate every element of speed consistent with safety," Mr. Nelson said. "The established transportation agencies in the northwest in this new service have recognized that speed is one of the factors most essential to some of its patrons who are prepared to pay a higher price to gain their goal in lesser time. We feel that the time has come to give a coordinated rail-air service a thorough going test."

Mr. Brittin said that the railroads participating are pioneering today just as they did when they laid the steelways through uninhabited territory. "The railroads have taken a forward-looking attitude," Mr. Brittin said. "This is to be a demonstration of the practical side of flying. The fad and the thrill of flying will not be impelling factors in this new service. The transcontinental passenger enroute from the Pacific northwest and intermediate points when this new service is started will be able to save valuable time transacting business which heretofore has been given to traveling. The Northwest Airways' records show that 90 per cent of the air travel is by business men who demand speed."

The coast trains with which the first Chicago-bound train will connect with leave Seattle, Portland, and Tacoma on Friday night, August 17.

FOR BARGAINS

If you go up and down the stores of a city and inquire the cost of some special quality or grade of product, you will often find considerable variations in the price. Some concerns will not specialize much on that particular line and cannot afford to make low prices on it. Others will have bought a large lot of that stuff and will be making a special drive to work it off.

How is the consumer to know which stores are selling a given article at the best figures? He might take his time and call around at all the stores and inquire. That would take a great deal of effort and few people would have patience to do it. Probably after they had visited one or two stores, they would take the next offering made to them, regardless of the fact that if they had kept on inquiring they might have done better.

The only practical way for the public to find out what stores sell the cheapest on any given line of stuff is for the stores that have bargains to advertise them and for the public to read the advertising and take advantage of such special chances. That is just what is happening all the time. Advertising is the force that provides any information by which the public learns of special opportunities, and is put in a position to get its supplies at minimum figures.—St. Cloud Times.

SOUTH DAKOTA COMES BACK

ONE has to but scan the financial statements of South Dakota banks, published last month, to find concrete evidence that the Sunshine State has staged a wonderful come-back financially. In face of the fact that just prior to the beginning of the movement of a new crop to market in an agricultural section of the country when ready cash and bank deposits are at low ebb of the year, almost without exception banks of South Dakota show increases in deposits, in many instances to a marked degree.

The existence of such conditions at this time are most gratifying, and shows beyond question that the farmers of this state are getting safely on the side of diversified and intensive farming.—Iroquois, S. D., Chief.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

WITH the greatest number of tourists in the Brainerd Lake Region since the wave started, it is no wonder that traffic accidents are increasing. One finds shoals of cars on our principal streets and trunk highways.

Down at the junction of Highways No. 2 and 18 foreign cars seem to hold their own in number with out of state cars at certain periods of the days. Checkers stationed there are gaining accurate information.

The situation calls for more careful driving. Saturday week end recorded nine crashes. One of them, in which three cars figured, occurred at the intersection of Broadway and Kingwood. Greater caution should be exercised at all times at intersections.

Wife Held in Love Slaying

Mrs. Frances Kirkwood, 32, Woodside, L. I., woman, being led away by a policeman for questioning after she had admitted burying six inches of carving knife in the side of Dr. Glenn Kirkwood, her handsome husband. She was driven to the deed, she said, by her husband's philandering. Inset, Kirkwood at time of his graduation.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE

Robert Lee Nebit, 22 months old, recently enjoyed a very strange adventure. Dressed only in an undershirt, he was left by his mother, Mrs. Margery Nebit, with a nursemaid, who took him riding in an old touring car driven by an unknown man and later abandoned him on the street, where Chicago police found him, bewildered. He is shown with Sergt. William Beehan.

HOOVER MEETS FARM PROBLEM

Urges Expenditure of Hundreds of Millions of a Workable Program

FAVORS HIGHER TARIFF WALL

Farmers Must Control and Administer Federal Farm Aid, Says Candidate.

HOOVER ON FARM RELIEF:

An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief.

Working out agricultural relief is the most important obligation of the next Administration.

The object of our policies is to establish for our farmers an income equal to those of other occupations.

Farming is and must continue an individualistic business of small units and independent ownership.

If the farmers' position is to be improved by larger operations it must be done not on the farm, but in the field of distribution.

Our platform lays a solid basis upon which we can build. It offers an affirmative program.

Nature has endowed us with a great system of inland waterways. Their modernization will comprise a substantial contribution to mid-west farm relief and development of 20 interior states. There is no more vital method of farm relief.

PALO ALTO, Calif.—Herbert Hoover met the farm question fairly and squarely in his Address of Acceptance at the Stadium of Stanford University.

Nearly one-third of his address was devoted to this subject, which Hoover termed "the most urgent economic problem in our nation today." He declared bluntly that farm relief must not be delayed by any monetary considerations, urging that "a nation which is spending ninety billions a year can well afford an expenditure of a few hundred millions for a workable program that will give to one-third of its population their fair share of the national prosperity."

The candidate pledged himself to a farm-aid plan in which farmers shall themselves control and administer the federal financial assistance which he proposes to put into effect.

"The most urgent economic problem in our nation today is in agriculture," he said. "It must be solved if we are to bring prosperity and contentment to one-third of our people directly and to all of our people indirectly. We have pledged ourselves to a solution."

"In my mind most agricultural discussions go wrong because of two false premises. The first is that agriculture is one industry. It is a dozen distinct industries incapable of the same organization. The second false premise is that rehabilitation will be complete when it has reached a point comparable with pre-war. Agriculture was not upon a satisfactory basis before the war. The abandoned farms of the northeast bear their own testimony. Generally there was but little profit in midwest agriculture for many years except that derived from the slow increases in farm land values. Even of more importance is the great advance in standards of living of all occupations since the war. Some branches of agriculture have greatly recovered, but taken as a whole it is not keeping pace with the onward march in other industries."

Cause and Effect
"There are many causes for failure of agriculture to win its full share of national prosperity. The after-war deflation of prices not only brought great direct losses to the farmer, but he was often left indebted in inflated dollars to be paid in deflated dollars. Prices are often demoralized through glut in our markets during the harvest season. Local taxes have been increased to provide the improved roads and schools. The tariff on some products is proving inadequate to protect him from imports from abroad. The increases in transportation rates since the war has greatly affected the price which he receives for his products. Over six million farmers in times of surplus engage in destructive competition with one another in sale of their product, often depressing prices below those levels that could be maintained."

"The whole tendency of our civilization during the last 50 years has been toward an increase in the size of the units of production in order to secure lower costs and a more orderly adjustment of the flow of commodities to the demand. But the organization of agriculture into larger units must not be by enlarged farms. The farmer has shown he can increase the skill of his industry without large operations. He is today producing 20 per cent more than eight years ago with about the same acreage and personnel. Farming is and must continue to be an individualistic business of small units and independent ownership. The farm is more than a business; it is a state of living. We do not wish it converted into a mass production machine. Therefore, if the farmers' position is to be improved by larger operations it must be done not on the farm but in the field of distribution. Agriculture has partially advanced in this direction through co-operatives and pools. But the traditional co-operative is often not a complete solution."

"Differences of opinion as to both causes and remedy have retarded the completion of a constructive program of relief. It is our plain duty to search out the common ground on which we may mobilize the sound forces of agricultural reconstruction. Our platform lays a solid basis upon which to build. It offers an affirmative program.

Tariff and Waterways

"An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief. Our consumers increase faster than our producers. The domestic market must be protected. Foreign products raised under lower standards of living are today competing in our home markets. I would use my office and influence to give the farmer the full benefit of our historic tariff policy."

"A large portion of the spread between what the farmer receives for his products and what the ultimate consumer pays is due to increased transportation charges. Increase in railway rates has been one of the penalties of the war. These increases have been added to the cost to the farmer of reaching seaboard and foreign markets and result therefore in reduction of his prices. The farmers of foreign countries have thus been indirectly aided in their competition with the American farmer. Nature has endowed us with a great system of inland waterways. Their modernization will comprise a most substantial contribution to midwest farm relief and to the development of twenty of our interior states. This modernization includes not only the great Mississippi system, with its joining of the Great Lakes and of the heart of midwest agriculture to the Gulf, but also a shipway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. These improvements would mean so large an increment in farmers' prices as to warrant their construction many times over. There is no more vital method of farm relief."

"But we must not stop here."

"An outstanding proposal of the Party program is the wholehearted pledge to undertake the reorganization of the marketing system upon sounder and more economical lines. We have already contributed greatly to this purpose by the acts supporting farm co-operatives, the establishment of intermediate credit banks, the regulation of stockyards, public exchanges and the expansion of the Department of Agriculture. The platform proposes

REPUBLICAN RECORD

Our problems of the past seven years have been problems of reconstruction; our problems of the future are problems of construction. They are problems of progress.

During these years our population has increased eight percent. Yet our national income has increased 45 percent. The number of families has increased 2,300,000 and we have built 3,500,000 new and better homes. We have equipped 9,000,000 more homes with electricity, and through it drudgery has been lifted from the lives of women. The barriers of time and distance have been swept away and life made freer and larger by the installation of 6,000,000 more telephones, 7,000,000 radio sets and the service of an additional 14,000,000 automobiles.

By rigorous economy, federal expenses have been reduced two billions annually. The national debt has been reduced six and a half billions. Taxes have been reduced four successive times. We have doubled savings deposits and nearly doubled life insurance.

President Coolidge has not only given a memorable administration, he has left an imprint of rectitude and statesmanship on our country.

to go much farther. It pledges the creation of a Federal Farm Board of representative farmers to be clothed with authority and resources with which not only to still further aid farmers' co-operatives and pools and to assist generally in solution of farm problems but especially to build up with federal finance, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations to protect the farmer from the depressions and demoralization of seasonal gluts and periodical surpluses.

Will Cost Money

"Objection has been made that this program, as laid down by the Party Platform, may require that several hundred millions of dollars of capital be advanced by the Federal Government without obligation upon the individual farmer. With that objection I have little patience. A nation which is spending ninety billions a year can well afford an expenditure of a few hundred millions for a workable program that will give to one-third of its population their fair share of the nation's prosperity. Nor does this proposal put the government into business except so far as it is called upon to furnish initial capital with which to build up the farmer to the control of his own destinies."

"This program adapts itself to the variable problems of agriculture not only today but which will arise in the future. I do not believe that any single human being or any group of human beings can determine in advance all questions that will arise in so vast and complicated an industry over a term of years. The first step is to create an effective agency directly for these purposes and to give it authority and resources. These are solemn pledges and they will be fulfilled by the Republican Party. It is a definite plan of relief. It needs only the detailed elaboration of legislation and appropriations to put it into force."

"During my term as Secretary of Commerce I have steadily endeavored to build up a system of co-operation between the government and business. Under these co-operative actions all elements interested in the problem of a particular industry such as manufacturer, distributor, worker, and consumer have been called in council together, not for a single occasion, but for continuous work. These efforts have been successful beyond any expectation. They have been accomplished without interference or regulation by the government. They have secured progress in the industries, remedy for abuses, elimination of waste, reduction of cost in production and distribution, lower prices to the consumer, and more stable employment and profit. While the problem

POINTS FROM HOOVER SPEECH

It shall be an honest campaign; every penny will be publicly accounted for.

Having earned my living with my own hands I cannot have other than the greatest sympathy with the aspirations of those who toil.

Our purpose is to build in this nation a human society, not an economic system.

Appointive office, both North, South, East and West, must be based solely on merit, character, and reputation in the community in which the appointee is to serve.

Participation of women in politics means higher standards.

Our workers can buy two and often three times more bread and butter than any wage earner in Europe.

By blood and conviction I stand for religious tolerance both in act and in spirit.

Our foreign policy has one primary object, and that is peace.

Government should not engage in business in competition with its citizens.

varies with every different commodity, and with every different part of our great country, I should wish to apply the same method to agriculture so that the leaders of every phase of each group can advise and organize on policies and constructive measures. I am convinced this form of action, as it has done in other industries, can benefit farmer, distributor and consumer.

Greater Opportunities

"The working out of agricultural relief constitutes the most important obligation of the next Administration. I stand pledged to these proposals. The object of our policies is to establish for our farmers an income equal to those of other occupations; for the farmer's wife the same comforts in her home as women in other groups; for the farm boys and girls the same opportunities in life as other boys and girls. So far as my own abilities may be of service, I dedicate them to help secure prosperity and contentment in that industry where I and my forefathers were born and nearly all my family still obtain their livelihood."

"The Republican Party has ever been the exponent of protection to all our people from competition with lower standards of living abroad. We have always fought for tariffs designed to establish this protection from imported goods. We also have enacted restrictions upon immigration for the protection of labor from the inflow of workers faster than we can absorb them without breaking down our wage levels."

"The Republican principle of an effective control of imported goods and of immigration has contributed greatly to the prosperity of our country. There is no selfishness in this defense of our standards of living. Other countries gain nothing if the high standards of America are sunk and if we are prevented from building a civilization which sets the level of hope for the entire world. A general reduction in the tariff would admit a flood of goods from abroad. It would injure every home. It would fill our streets with idle workers. It would destroy the returns to our dairymen, our fruit, flax, and livestock growers, and our other farmers."

Prohibition

On the subject of prohibition, Mr. Hoover repeated his recent declaration: "I do not favor repeal of the 18th Amendment. I stand for efficient enforcement of laws enacted thereunder. Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively." And he added the following comment:

"Common sense compels us to realize that grave abuses have occurred—abuses which must be remedied. Investigation can alone determine the wise method of correcting them. Crime and disobedience of law cannot be permitted to break down the Constitution and laws of the United States."

"Modification of the enforcement laws which would permit that which the Constitution forbids is nullification. This the American people will not countenance. Change in the Constitution can and must be brought about only by the straightforward methods provided in the Constitution itself. There are those who do not believe in the purposes of several provisions of the Constitution. No one denies their right to seek to amend it. They are not subject to criticism for asserting that right. But the Republican Party does deny the right of anyone to seek to destroy the purposes of the Constitution by indirect means."

"Whoever is elected President takes an oath not only to faithfully execute the office of the President, but that oath provides still further that he will, to the best of his ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. I should be untrue to these great traditions, untrue to my oath of office, were I to declare otherwise."

EPOCHAL EVENT IN AMERICAN TRANSPORTATION

AN epochal event in American transportation will be observed on Monday, August 20, when for the first time regular coordinated rail and air passenger service will be inaugurated.

The fastest movement of passengers from the Pacific to the Atlantic across the nation ever in regular commercial service will be established.

Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland on the west, and New York and Washington on the east, will be the extremes geographically which will be benefited by this new service which, however, will be extended to all intermediate points.

The air link which is the key in the speed element of this transcontinental service will be between Minneapolis-St. Paul and Chicago. Nowhere in the country today is this rail-air service now coordinated as will be effected in this new service, according to E. E. Nelson, passenger traffic manager of the Northern Pacific Railway, chairman of a committee of rail and air carrier representatives who have worked out the new schedule.

A feature of the service is that an eastbound passenger from the northwest enroute to New York or Washington, for instance, will be able to save an entire business day, and a westbound passenger from New York or Washington and intermediate points to the northwest will be able to spend a large part of the business day in Chicago enroute without loss of time.

The airplane connecting with the morning trains from the Pacific coast and the northwest will make the trip to Chicago in 3½ hours, connecting with the outstanding trains for the east and south leaving Chicago just after noon. The scheduled plane will leave Chicago at 3 p. m. and arrive in ample time to connect with the outstanding trains leaving St. Paul and Minneapolis at night.

In this new service is involved rail, air, and highway motor transportation. The motor equipment will carry the passengers from the train or plane to the rail station or airport. Air-rail tickets will be sold by the railroads co-operating.

The air link will be established by the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., and the Northwest Airways, Inc. All metal 7-passenger planes equipped with 500 horsepower engines giving a cruising speed of 115 miles an hour will be used in this service, according to L. H. Brittin, vice president and general manager of the Northwest Airways.

"In this new service which is about to be inaugurated, the railroads believe they are providing to their passenger patrons, facilities which incorporate every element of speed consistent with safety," Mr. Nelson said. "The established transportation agencies in the northwest in this new service have recognized that speed is one of the factors most essential to some of its patrons who are prepared to pay a higher price to gain their goal in lesser time. We feel that the time has come to give a coordinated rail-air service a thorough going test."

Mr. Brittin said that the railroads participating are pioneering today just as they did when they laid the steelways through uninhabited territory. "The railroads have taken a forward-looking attitude," Mr. Brittin said. "This is to be a demonstration of the practical side of flying. The fun and the thrill of flying will not be impelling factors in this new service. The transcontinental passenger enroute from the Pacific northwest and intermediate points when this new service is started will be able to save valuable time transacting business which heretofore has been given to traveling. The Northwest Airways' records show that 90 per cent of the air travel is by business men who demand speed."

The coast trains with which the first Chicago-bound train will connect with leave Seattle, Portland, and Tacoma on Friday night, August 17.

FOR BARGAINS

If you go up and down the stores of a city and inquire the cost of some special quality or grade of product, you will often find considerable variations in the price. Some concerns will not specialize much on that particular line and cannot afford to make low prices on it. Others will have bought a large lot of that stuff and will be making a special drive to work it off.

How is the consumer to know which stores are selling a given article at the best figures? He might take his time and call around at all the stores and inquire. That would take a great deal of effort and few people would have patience to do it. Probably after they had visited one or two stores, they would take the next offering made to them, regardless of the fact that if they had kept on inquiring they might have done better.

The only practical way for the public to find out what stores sell the cheapest on any given line of stuff is for the stores that have bargains to advertise them and for the public to read the advertising and take advantage of such special chances. That is just what is happening all the time. Advertising is the force that provides any information by which the public learns of special opportunities, and is put in a position to get its supplies at minimum figures.—St. Cloud Times.

SOUTH DAKOTA COMES BACK

ONE has to but scan the financial statements of South Dakota banks, published last month, to find concrete evidence that the Sunshine State has staged a wonderful come-back financially. In face of the fact that just prior to the beginning of the movement of a new crop to market in an agricultural section of the country when ready cash and bank deposits are at low ebb of the year, almost without exception banks of South Dakota show increases in deposits, in many instances to a marked degree.

The existence of such conditions at this time are most gratifying, and shows beyond question that the farmers of this state are getting safely on the side of diversified and intensive farming.—Iroquois, S. D., Chief.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

WITH the greatest number of tourists in the Brainerd Lake Region since the wave started, it is no wonder that traffic accidents are increasing. One finds shoals of cars on our principal streets and trunk highways.

Down at the junction of Highways No. 2 and 18 foreign cars seem to hold their own in number with out of state cars at certain periods of the days. Checkers stationed there are gaining accurate information.

The situation calls for more careful driving. Saturday week end recorded nine crashes. One of them, in which three cars figured, occurred at the intersection of Broadway and Kingwood. Greater caution should be exercised at all times at intersections.

Wife Held in Love Slaying

Mrs. Frances Kirkwood, 32, Woodside, L. I., woman, being led away by a policeman for questioning after she had admitted burying six inches of carving knife in the side of Dr. Glenn Kirkwood, her handsome husband. She was driven to the deed, she said, by her husband's philandering. Inset, Kirkwood at time of his graduation.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE

Robert Lee Nebit, 22 months old, recently enjoyed a very strange adventure. Dressed only in an undershirt, he was left by his mother, Mrs. Margery Nebit, with a nursemaid, who took him riding in an old touring car driven by an unknown man and later abandoned him on the street, where Chicago police found him, bewildered. He is shown with Sgt. William Beehan.

The farmers of foreign countries have thus been indirectly aided in their competition with the American farmer. Nature has endowed us with a great system of inland waterways. Their modernization will comprise a most substantial contribution to midwest farm relief and to the development of twenty of our interior states. This modernization includes not only the great Mississippi system, with its joining of the Great Lakes and of the heart of midwest agriculture to the Gulf, but also a shipway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. These improvements would mean so large an increment in farmers' prices as to warrant their construction many times over. There is no more vital method of farm relief. But we must not stop here."

"An outstanding proposal of the Party program is the whole-hearted pledge to undertake the reorganization of the marketing system upon sounder and more economical lines. We have already contributed greatly to this purpose by the acts supporting farm co-operatives, the establishment of intermediate credit banks, the regulation of stockyards, public exchanges and the expansion of the Department of Agriculture. The platform proposes

Our problems of the past seven years have been problems of reconstruction; our problems of the future are problems of construction. They are problems of progress.

During these years our population has increased eight percent. Yet our national income has increased 45 percent. The number of families has increased 2,300,000 and we have built 3,500,000 new and better homes. We have equipped 9,000,000 more homes with electricity, and through it drudgery has been lifted from the lives of women. The barriers of time and distance have been swept away and life made freer and larger by the installation of 6,000,000 more telephones, 7,000,000 radio sets and the service of an additional 14,000,000 automobiles.

By rigorous economy, federal expenses have been reduced two billions annually. The national debt has been reduced six and a half billions. Taxes have been reduced four successive times. We have doubled savings deposits and nearly doubled life insurance.

President Coolidge has not only given a memorable administration, he has left an imprint of rectitude and statesmanship on our country.

to go much farther. It pledges the creation of a Federal Farm Board of representative farmers to be clothed with authority and resources with which not only to still further aid farmers' co-operatives and pools and to assist generally in solution of farm problems but especially to build up with federal finance, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations to protect the farmer from the depressions and demoralization of seasonal gluts and periodical surpluses.

Will Cost Money

"Objection has been made that this program, as laid down by the Party Platform, may require that several hundred millions of dollars of capital be advanced by the Federal Government without obligation upon the individual farmer. With that objection I have little patience. A nation which is spending ninety billions a year can well afford an expenditure of a few hundred millions for a workable program that will give to one-third of its population their fair share of the nation's prosperity. Nor does this proposal put the government into business except so far as it is called upon to furnish initial capital with which to build up the farmer to the control of his own destinies."

"This program adapts itself to the variable problems of agriculture not only today but which will arise in the future. I do not believe that any single human being or any group of human beings can determine in advance all questions that will arise in so vast and complicated an industry over a term of years. The first step is to create an effective agency directly for these purposes and to give it authority and resources. These are solemn pledges and they will be fulfilled by the Republican Party. It is a definite plan of relief. It needs only the detailed elaboration of legislation and appropriations to put it into force."

"During my term as Secretary of Commerce I have steadily endeavored to build up a system of co-operation between the government and business. Under these co-operative actions all elements interested in the problem of a particular industry such as manufacturer, distributor, worker, and consumer have been called in council together, not for a single occasion, but for continuous work. These efforts have been successful beyond any expectation. They have been accomplished without interference or regulation by the government. They have secured progress in the industries, remedy for abuses, elimination of waste, reduction of cost in production and distribution, lower prices to the consumer, and more stable employment and profit. While the problem

It shall be an honest campaign; every penny will be publicly accounted for.

Having earned my living with my own hands I cannot have other than the greatest sympathy with the aspirations of those who toil.

Our purpose is to build in this nation a human society, not an economic system.

Appointive office, both North, South, East and West, must be based solely on merit, character, and reputation in the community in which the appointee is to serve. Participation of women in politics means higher standards.

Our workers can buy two and often three times more bread and butter than any wage earner in Europe.

By blood and conviction I stand for religious tolerance both in act and in spirit.

Our foreign policy has one primary object, and that is peace.

Government should not engage in business in competition with its citizens.

varies with every different commodity and with every different part of our great country. I should wish to apply the same method to agriculture so that the leaders of every phase of each group can advise and organize on policies and constructive measures. I am convinced this form of action, as it has done in other industries, can benefit farmer, distributor and consumer.

Greater Opportunities

"The working out of agricultural relief constitutes the most important obligation of the next Administration. I stand pledged to these proposals. The object of our policies is to establish for our farmers an income equal to those of other occupations; for the farmer's wife the same comforts in her home as women in other groups; for the farm boys and girls the same opportunities in life as other boys and girls. So far as my own abilities may be of service, I dedicate them to help secure prosperity and contentment in that industry where I and my forefathers were born and nearly all my family still obtain their livelihood."

"The Republican Party has ever been the exponent of protection to all our people from competition with lower standards of living abroad. We have always fought for tariffs designed to establish this protection from imported goods. We also have enacted restrictions upon immigration for the protection of labor from the inflow of workers faster than we can absorb them without breaking down our wage levels."

"The Republican principle of an effective control of imported goods and of immigration has contributed greatly to the prosperity of our country. There is no selfishness in this defense of our standards of living. Other countries gain nothing if the high standards of America are sunk and if we are prevented from building a civilization which sets the level of hope for the entire world. A general reduction in the tariff would admit a flood of goods from abroad. It would injure every home. It would fill our streets with idle workers. It would destroy the returns to our dairymen, our fruit, flax, and livestock growers, and our other farmers."

Prohibition

On the subject of prohibition, Mr. Hoover repeated his recent declaration: "I do not favor repeal of the 18th Amendment. I stand for efficient enforcement of laws enacted thereunder. Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively." And he added the following comment: "Common sense compels us to realize that grave abuses have occurred—abuses which must be remedied. Investigation can alone determine the wise method of correcting them. Crime and disobedience of law cannot be permitted to break down the Constitution and laws of the United States."

"Modification of the enforcement laws which would permit that which the Constitution forbids is nullification. This the American people will not countenance. Change in the Constitution can and must be brought about only by the straightforward methods provided in the Constitution itself. There are those who do not believe in the purposes of several provisions of the Constitution. No one denies their right to seek to amend it. They are not subject to criticism for asserting that right. But the Republican Party does deny the right of anyone to seek to destroy the purposes of the Constitution by indirect means."

"Whoever is elected President takes an oath not only to faithfully execute the office of the President, but that oath provides still further that he will, to the best of his ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. I should be untrue to these great traditions, untrue to my oath of office, were I to declare otherwise."

REAL THRILLER WITH SPARKLING PLAYS IS PROMISED FANS

RANGE TEAM GETS STARS AND LOCALS ARE STRENGTHENED TOO

The Brainerd ball club will meet the fast Crosby Ore Diggers at Municipal field Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock during the Moose convention. A real thriller with lots of sparkling plays is promised due to the fact that the local nine is out to erase the defeat handed them at Crosby by the Ore Diggers on the Fourth of July.

Jack Schmidt, manager of the Ore Diggers, is all set to reap another victory when he brings his players here Saturday. He will have with him such stars as Claude Kline, a real hitter, and known to many as the best third baseman in the northwest. Johnny Stark, formerly with the University of Minnesota nine, will hold down the shortstop position.

N. Y. GIANTS PENNANT CHANCES ARE DIAGNOSED

NOW TRAILING LEAGUE LEADING ST. LOUIS CARDS

FINAL WESTERN INVASION WILL TELL THE WHOLE STORY

GIANTS TO PLAY 13 GAMES IN WEST DURING NEXT 12 DAYS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 14.—The pennant chances of the New York Giants hinge on their final western invasion which opens today at Chicago. Trailing the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals by 2½ games, the Giants will try to overtake the slumping Cards.

The Giants have 13 games scheduled in the west during the next 12 days. They play three games at Chicago, three at St. Louis, three at Cincinnati and four, including one double-header, at Pittsburgh.

During their last home stand against the four western clubs and the Philadelphia Phillies, the Giants won fifteen games and lost only four. The Giants head west better fortified than any club in the league.

The spirit of the club is good, the pitching is stronger than at any other time this season and the hitting is sharp and timely.

Larry Benton, ace of the Giants' staff, probably will pitch the opening game against the Cubs. The Giants have won only one game out of eight played at Chicago this season, and Benton pitched the victory.

John J. McGraw has seven pitchers upon whom to depend in the west. They are Benton, Fitzsimmons, Aldridge, Genewich, Walker, Faulkner and Hubbell, the recent $40,000 importation from Beaumont, Texas.

The play of Frank Hogan, Freddy Lindstrom and Andy Reese has played a prominent part in the drive of the Giants for the top. Hogan has developed into the hardest hitting catcher in the majors and Lindstrom is probably playing the best game at third base in either league. Alternating with Lefty O'Doul in left field, young Andy Reese has contributed a lot of sensational hitting and fielding to the Giants' cause.

Whereas the Cardinal pitchers are cracking under the strain, the Giant pitchers are set for a hard campaign during the remaining days. Alexander hasn't pitched a game since the Cards left the Polo Grounds. Haines lost his last start.

Aldridge has found himself and the addition of Hubbell has given the Giants an unexpected star. Hubbell shut out the Phillies in his last start, allowing but six hits. Genewich lost seven out of nine games with the Braves, but has won seven out of nine since joining the Giants.

Stribling Grabs a Record

By QUIN HALL

YOUNG STRIBLING, the young Southern heavyweight scrapper, who is constantly making good in the minor league ranks of pugilistic circles but who has never seemed able to click in a big way among the major leaguers, has finally grabbed himself a record.

Recently it was announced that Stribling had scored his 102nd knockout and as his career is rather well filled with fistfuls of engagements he will doubtless build up the string and finish with what might be considered a pretty good yearly average.

Some time ago Young Stribling loomed as a possibility for Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination contests but it seems that every time the youngster was brought into New York the glare of the calciums blinded him or something happened and he proved a first-class flop. He's been given several running starts to fame and fortune in the big city but each time he has turned up his toes or done a nose dive back into the sticks. Undoubtedly with all of his activity he has done well with the bank roll but he hasn't amassed the coin to which he seems entitled but which he has always missed by musing up his chances.

Stribling attracted a lot of attention several years ago when he scored victories over such scrappers as Slattery, Risko and McTigue, but then he appeared to weaken. His failure was attributed to a top-heavy schedule of fighting which was arranged by his father-manager, "Pa" Stribling. It was said that he had been burned up by too much scrapping during his early years but he dazzled back for a spell after that when he scored a one-round K. O. over Marty Burke, a mauler who had held his own with Godfrey, Loughran and many others.

However, the spell wasn't for long and Stribling hasn't been heard of in anything but an indirect way for some time until a small item told of his 102nd K. O. He's fought a lot of battles but he probably never will be heard from as a big shot who rakes in the shekels by the hundreds of thousands.

It is surprising how few of the modern fighters have any long string of knockouts to crow about. Benny Leonard, who has retired, can boast of 64. Mike McTigue, who is as well as through, chalked up 58. Ed Burnbrook, 2, Oed 54 and Tiger Flowers had accounted for 50 via the K. O. route before he passed on. Carpenter, Dempsey and Willis are each credited with 48, while Jack Delaney had

42. Tunney is held responsible for 30 and, if memory serves correctly, George K. O. Chaney, the Baltimore lightweight of a few years back reached close to the century mark, when it came to putting his opponents out via the groggy route. Another famous old-time knockout was Young Otto, also a lightweight.

An interesting fact in connection with present-day K. O. artists is that Jimmy "Baby Face" McLarnin, famed for his K. O. wallop, has actually scored only a few knockouts as a professional beak buster. These, however, have been registered against some of the best lightweights in the division and include such well-known sock traders as Sid Terris, Joey Sanger, Kid Kaplan, Jackie Fields and Phil McGraw.

John L. Sullivan might have hung up a record for K. O.'s if all the knockouts he scored during his tour around the country offering prizes to anyone who could stay four rounds with him had been counted. Many of these, however, were against non-professionals and usually were checked up against the town-bully. It's too bad that Stribling with his great knockout record can't make good in the major leagues. What a card he'd be if he could bowl over the best like he does the palookas.

MILD they certainly are, and what's more, they SATISFY.

GENE TUNNEY AS PRIVATE CITIZEN

TRIES HIS BEST TO LIVE UP TO HIS NEWLY DECIDED ROLE

New York, Aug. 14.—(UP)—Gene Tunney tried his best today to live up to his new role of a private citizen rather than the retired undefeated heavyweight champion.

Tunney came home from St. Johns Island, Me., where he has been a guest at the home of his fiancée, Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, yesterday. He used a disguise to leave Maine, left the train at a suburban station in New York and then went to his hotel, thus evading reporters.

The former champion contends his affairs are no longer of interest to the public, since he has retired from the ring.

It did become known through friends, however, that rumors of Tunney's immediate marriage are incorrect. He plans to sail Thursday for Europe with Thornton Wilder, the novelist. The rumor had circulated Tunney would be married before leaving on the European trip.

Tunney has been promoted to a captain in the marine reserve corps. He was made a lieutenant just after he won the heavyweight title from Jack Dempsey in Philadelphia.

NORMA TALMADGE

"The Dove" Coming

"The Dove," Willard Mack's successful stage play, had the honor of being Norma Talmadge's choice for her first production for United Artists. It comes to the Lyceum for 3 days starting Wednesday.

The play was produced by David Belasco on February 11th, 1925, at the Empire theatre, New York City. It proved to be another Belasco sensation and made a star of Judith Anderson, who played the role Norma Talmadge has on the screen.

Dick Barthelmess in Another "Tol-able David" Role at Lyceum

For almost two decades now "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" has been one of the outstanding novels of the twentieth century. John Fox, Jr., initiated a new field of literature with his Kentucky mountain atmosphere.

Under the direction of Alfred A. Santell, Richard Barthelmess makes another memorable "Tol-able David" character of Chad, the mountain orphan who is taken up by the blue blooded Major Buford in the city. The civil war episodes are touched upon only briefly, to show the parting between Chad and the major and to bring a swirling climax of rain and fighting as Melissa risks her life to warn Chad of the approaching guerrillas.

Last showings at the Lyceum tonight.

Beautiful Grasse Region

The Grasse region, in the south of France, is the real land of flowers. There is practically no agriculture in the region save floriculture. For miles after miles as far as the eye can see there are fields of roses, violets, tuberoses and other kinds of blossoms, beautiful beyond description in the harvest season.

Preacher by Day Is

Cab Driver at Night

New York.—By day he is Rev. Thomas H. Whelpley, ministering to his flock at the Chelsea Presbyterian church, but by night he is plain Tom Whelpley, hack driver.

His motive is not hard to understand. He is alive with curiosity about how the many thousands who seldom appear at church on Sunday spend the long Saturday nights before and driving gives him a chance to know.

Recently, while out on a run, he remembered he had a wedding to perform. In a minute he had rushed into his room, changed into his clerical garb and walked solemnly into the transept.

After the ceremony, as the young couple were being congratulated in the doorway, Rev. Whelpley did his Jekyll-Hyde act and appeared at the wheel of his cab.

"Cab!" shouted the young groom. "Yes, sir," answered the preacher, who had just tied the knot. They were off through the rain to Woodside, L. I., and their new home.

Lonely After Release,

Convict Kills Self

New York.—To James Brackett the stone walls of Sing Sing meant home. "I can't stand the loneliness of freedom," he said after he had been released on parole recently. Seventeen years ago Brackett was convicted of murder and sentenced to the death chair. One hour before the time of his execution a reprieve was granted.

After fifteen years he was released on parole, but the loneliness preyed on his mind.

"All my pals are up there," he said "I want to go back."

Brackett was found dead in his bed, the gas jets open. He was buried by Capt. Stanley Shepard, the Salvation army parole officer, who saw to it that his remains did not lie in the Potter's field.

Women Need a Mild Laxative -Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach. They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

Do You Buy Advertised Goods?

Of course you do; everybody does. Just run over in your mind the various articles that you have purchased in the last week or the last month. How about foods? Your breakfast fruits, cereals and bacon are all advertised. Probably that is how you first came to know of them—through advertising. Probably the shoes you are wearing, or the dress or suit you have on are equally well-known advertised makes, and you are proud of them.

In the home. On the floor are rugs and linoleum—the better wearing kinds are extensively advertised. What about the kitchen? Aluminum ware, gas ranges, hot water heaters, dish and clothes washers, cooking utensils of all kinds—practically everything you use is advertised. You buy advertised products because you have confidence in them. You know that a manufacturer cannot afford to advertise shoddy or unworthy merchandise.

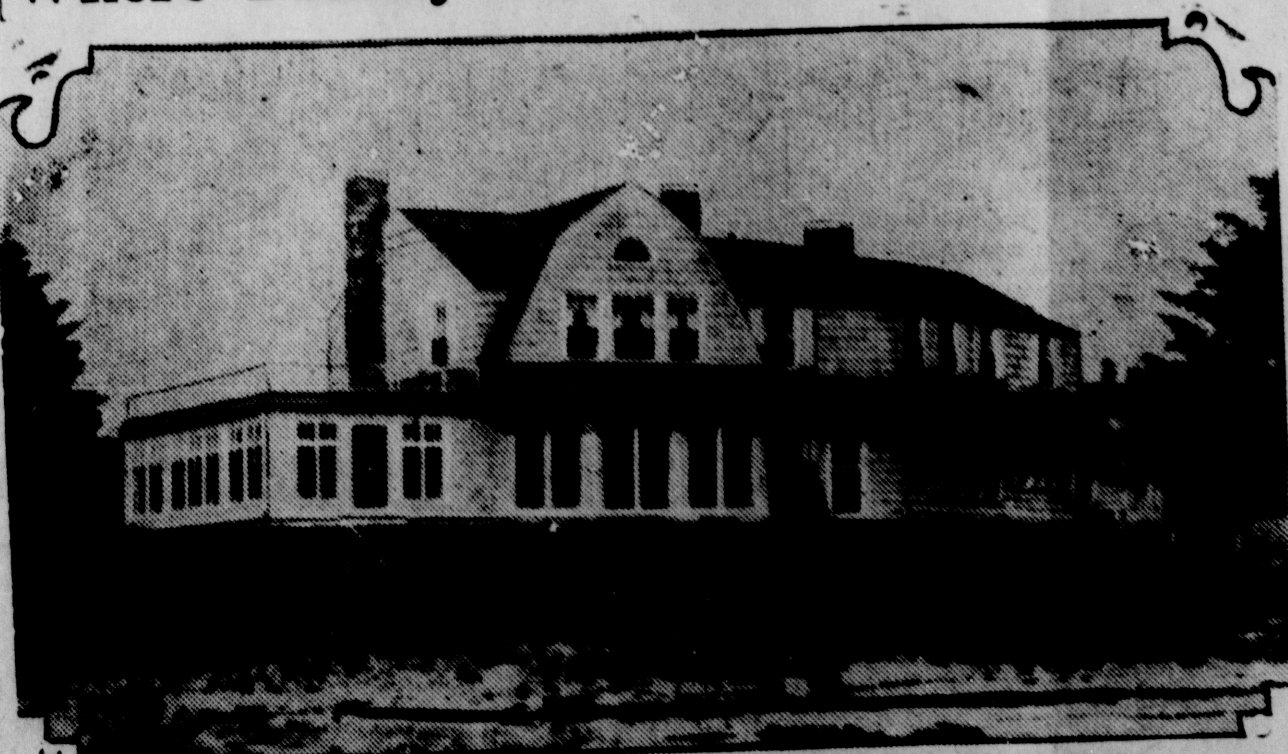

The more you read advertising the more you will know about human progress. You will become well posted in almost every line of human endeavor and a canny judge of values. Reading advertisements is a fine habit. Cultivate it.

Advertising is one form of insurance. It gives you a feeling of perfect confidence and safety when you ask for an advertised brand, for you know that you will get the quality and service you expect. The name is the guarantee.

I have a mineral bath cabinet for Vapor mineral baths for rheumatism and diseases of the skin, high blood pressure and obesity when indicated, and in conjunction with this for muscular troubles, lumbago, neuritis and muscular exercises to keep fit I employ an electrically operated massuer, sanitarium type with belts, rollers and attachments.

I also have the electronic methods of treating and diagnosing, this is often spoken of as the Abram's method, and has established a record in treating malignant diseases when not too far advanced.

In fact, you will find that the treatments and advice given are based on sound facts. Conditions are improving and good health is becoming a gospel—preached in homes, schools, newspapers and magazines. Love's Ecstasy

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl working in New York as a stenographer, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Alela is living with Marise de Rense and the latter's young, sophisticated sister, Goldie. Goldie, jealous, maliciously poisons Gary's mind with falsehoods about Alela. Gary, disillusioned, avoids Alela. Goldie meets W. B. Lingard, Alela's employer, who mistakes her for Marise. Lingard accompanies Goldie home and there meets Marise—sweetheart of his youth. Eavesdropping, Goldie learns that Marise is not her sister—but her mother! She later confronts Marise and demands an explanation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVII.
MARRIED—when I was seventeen," dully announced Marise.

She had sunk back in the rocker in the living-room, her limbs too shaky to support her. Her hands—pathetically idle for once in her hard-working life—were folded in her lap.

Her eyes had the dumb, pleading pathos of some animal in pain—like a sorely beaten dog. With the air of a young Daniel come to judgment, Goldie towered over her quondam "sister," Marise.

"I want the truth." The words were snapped out, brutally. "You say you are my mother? Then, where's my father? Who is he? Where's my birth-certificate?"

"I've got it." The answer choked on a sob. Goldie's eyes narrowed in swift, incredulous surprise and calculation. "You mean you were really married—legally—to this Lingard man?"

"To—Lingard?" Marise's raised a wet, startled gaze to her young daughter's face. "How ever did you come to imagine such a thing? Mr. Lingard—wasn't my husband?"

This was a shock for Goldie. This knowledge flung her new plans out of gear.

"Then who was he? Haven't I the right to get some information? Doesn't it rather tremendously concern—myself?"

"You're right," rejoined Marise, tonelessly. "I only kept the truth from you because I loved you so—because I wanted to save you unnecessary pain."

Goldie looked squarely, truculently at the woman whom she had always regarded as an elder sister. The years of Marise's many sacrifices counted little—at this moment—to her.

"The truth? I ask for it! Who was my father?"

Marise answered, mechanically: "A criminal!"

"A—what?" For a second it looked as though Goldie, in her fury, might even strike Marise. Her head was reared up like that of an angry cobra. "How dare you?"

What do you mean? Tell me... quick!"

"I met him and married him at seventeen," said Marise dully. "Tonight's incidents—the thrill and pain of seeing Lingard, her old sweetheart, had completely shattered her poise. It was so hard to control her trembling. "My people were fearfully against the marriage. I was—a country girl—from Oklahoma. He was what they would call a 'rounder.' Made a precarious living—from different sources—especially from the race track."

"You knew that?" The words were like a pistol shot.

"No. I was a child—infatuated—ignorant. What did I know of life? I lived with my grandmother and two middle-aged aunts. They'd kept me shielded—almost cloistered. And when my chance came along, I listened to the first smooth tongue... I was fascinated by the first handsome face!"

"They tried to stop things—but I ran away with him, and we were married. He took me to Chicago. You were born there, Goldie, just at a time when I was waking up to the appalling knowledge of the sort of a husband I had got... The girl mumbled: "It was hateful of you, all these years to deceive me so—to keep this back!"

As though she had not heard her, Marise continued, still in that flat, toneless voice: "I was frightfully unhappy, and when you were two years old I left him and hid away in another town. I worked as waitress in a cafe—took in washing—finally I went on the stage."

"We toured. It was a desperately hard life—but I had you, Goldie—no sacrifice seemed hard, because I had—my child."

"It was then that I met William B. Lingard. We were playing in Chicago. He was—a clerk in a small bank."

"He fell in love with me immediately. And I was crazy about him. So crazy that I made the big mistake of not telling him, right from the start, that I was married. I wanted to wait, you see, until he should ask me to become his wife—and then I would tell him."

"It was a fatal error." Marise's voice shook. "For he called at our lodgings one day, when I was out, and you—a little thing of four, and the very image of me—danced into the room. He asked you who you were—you told him I was your mother—and he walked out."

"We had a scene afterwards, he and I. He was hot-tempered, and he said cruel things about my—my duplicity! I told him your father was a crook—a gangster—but by this time Lingard was so angry and so doubtful that he didn't seem to believe me."

"And I got mad, myself. It hurt so. Because I loved this man. And the sad part was that you and I were leaving Chicago next day, with the company, and—in the height of this misunderstanding and quarrel—Lingard and I parted. "Right on top of that, your father's name was blazoned in the papers. He'd been caught in a hold-up, was arrested, and got ten years in jail."

"I changed our name immediately, and left the company for another, because of the shame and the scandal connected with our real name."

"Tonight—" Marise's voice shook again—"my old sweetheart tells me how he regretted our quarrel, and how he tried to find me; but I was no longer Marise Miller, but de Rense, and as we never again went near Chicago his hopes of finding me dwindled away. And yet—there was a sad triumph suddenly upon her face—"he never married—and never forgot his early sweetheart."

Goldie said, sharply: "My father? Haven't I the right, in the middle of all this sob stuff about Lingard, to hear where he is, and what happened to him? He must be—out of jail?" Her nostrils quivered on the hateful word.

"He died in the third year of his imprisonment," said Marise quietly. Without another query or glance toward the woman whom she now knew was her mother, Goldie walked out of the room. The world was hateful. She had just learnt she was the daughter of a criminal!

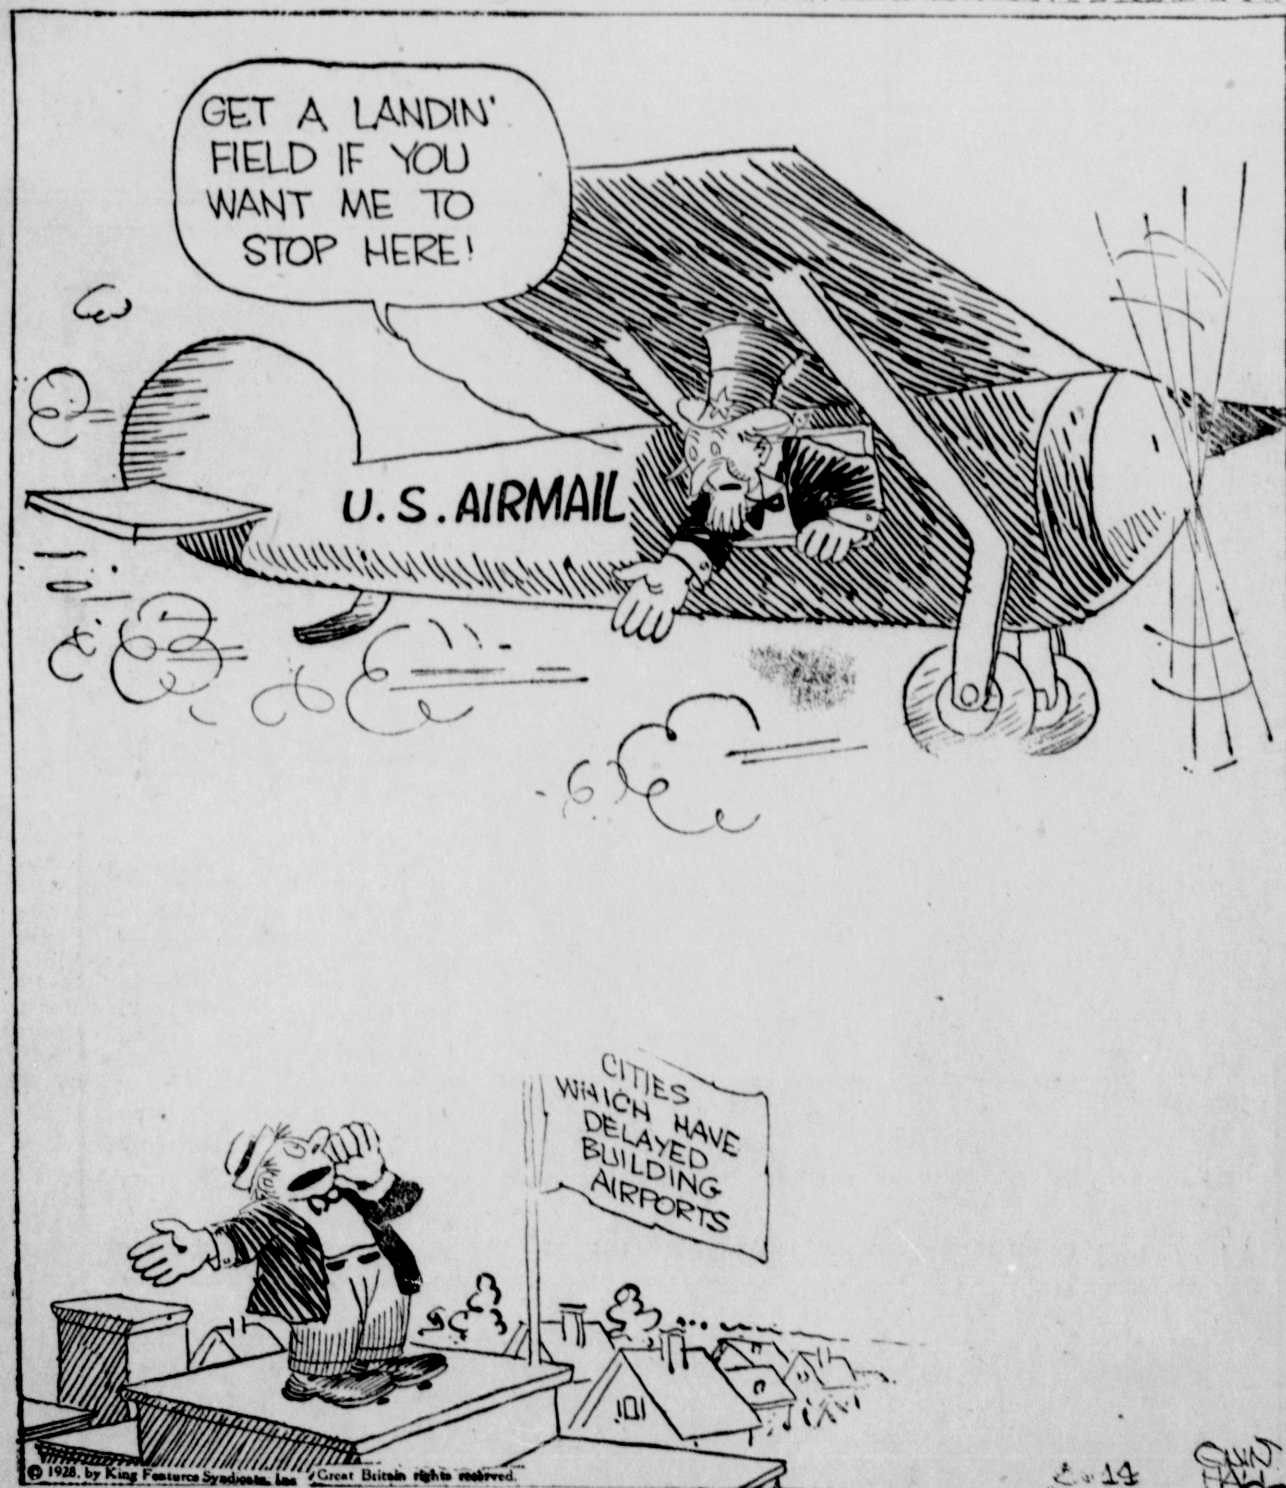

Late that night, on her return from the Harvest Moon club, and worried that Goldie had not put in an appearance here, Marise went to her daughter's bedroom.

On the dressing-table was a scribbled bit of paper. Even before she read it, Marise with a sick pain guessed what had occurred... Her fingers shook uncontrollably, her eyes were a blur.

Goldie had gone! Gone—leaving behind her a cruel message—gone "forever," she wrote, in her anger and resentment, from her mother's house!

Love's Ecstasy

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl working in New York as a stenographer, and Gary Chester, young engineer, are in love. Alela is living with Marise de Rense and the latter's young, sophisticated sister, Goldie. Goldie, jealous, maliciously poisons Gary's mind with falsehoods about Alela. Gary, disillusioned, avoids Alela. Goldie meets W. B. Lingard, Alela's employer, who mistakes her for Marise. Lingard accompanies Goldie home and there meets Marise—sweetheart of his youth. Eavesdropping, Goldie learns that Marise is not her sister—but her mother! She later confronts Marise and demands an explanation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVII.

"I MARRIED — when I was seventeen," said Marise dully. "I married Marise."

She had sunk back in the rocker in the living-room, her limbs too shaky to support her. Her hands—pathetically idle for once in her hard-working life—were folded in her lap.

Her eyes had the dumb, pleading pathos of some animal in pain—like a sorely beaten dog.

With the air of a young Daniel come to judgment, Goldie towered over her quondam "sister," Marise.

"I want the truth," the words were snapped out, brutally. "You say you are my mother? Then, where's my father? Who is he? Where's my birth-certificate?"

"I've got it," the answer choked on a sob. Goldie's eyes narrowed in swift, incredulous surprise and calculation. "You mean you were really married—legally—to this Lingard man?"

"To—Lingard?" Marise's raised a wet, startled gasp to her young daughter's face. "How ever did you come to imagine such a thing? Mr. Lingard—wasn't my husband?"

This was a shock for Goldie. This knowledge flung her new plans out of gear.

"Then who was he? Haven't I the right to get some information? Doesn't it rather tremendously concern—myself?"

"You're right," rejoined Marise, tonelessly. "I only kept the truth from you because I loved you so—because I wanted to save you unnecessary pain."

Goldie looked squarely, truculently at the woman whom she had always regarded as an elder sister. The years of Marise's many sacrifices counted little—at this moment—to her.

"The truth? I ask for it! Who was my father?"

Marise answered, mechanically: "A criminal!"

"A—what?" For a second it looked as though Goldie, in her fury, might even strike Marise.

Her head was reared up like that of an angry cobra. "How dare you?"

What do you mean? Tell me—quick!"

"I met him and married him at seventeen," said Marise dully. Tonight's incidents—the thrill and pain of seeing Lingard, her old sweetheart, had completely shattered her poise. It was so hard to control her trembling. "My people were fearfully against the marriage."

"I was—a country girl—from Oklahoma. He was what they would call a 'founder.' Made a precarious living—from different sources—especially from the race track."

"You knew that?" The words were like a pistol shot.

"No. I was a child—infatuated—ignorant. What did I know of life? I lived with my grandmother and two middle-aged aunts. They'd kept me shielded—almost cloistered. And when my chance came along, I listened to the first smooth tongue."

"I was fascinated by the first handsome face!"

"They tried to stop things—but I ran away with him, and we were married. He took me to Chicago. You were born there, Goldie, just at a time when I was waking up to the appalling knowledge of the sort of a husband I had got."

The girl mumbled: "It was hateful of you, all these years to deceive me so—to keep this back!"

As though she had not heard her, Marise continued, still in that flat, toneless voice:

"I was frightfully unhappy, and when you were two years old I left him and hid away in another town. I worked as waitress in a cafe—took in washing—finally I went on the stage."

"We toured. It was a desperately hard life—but I had you, Goldie—no sacrifice seemed hard, because I had—my child."

"It was then that I met William B. Lingard. He was—a clerk in a small bank."

"He fell in love with me immediately. And I was crazy about him. So crazy that I made the big mistake of not telling him, right from the start, that I was married. I wanted to wait, you see, until he should ask me to become his wife—and then I would tell him."

"It was a fatal error," Marise's voice shook. "For he called at our lodgings one day, when I was out, and you—a little thing of four, and the very image of me—danced into the room. He asked you who you were—you told him I was your mother—and he walked out."

"We had a scene afterwards, he and I. He was hot-tempered, and he said cruel things about my—my duplicity! I told him your father was a crook—a gangster—but by this time Lingard was so angry and so doubtful that he didn't seem to believe me."

"And I got mad, myself. It hurt so. Because I loved this man. And the sad part was that you and I were leaving Chicago next day, with the company, and—in the height of this misunderstanding and quarrel—Lingard and I parted."

"Right on top of that, your father's name was blazoned in the papers. He'd been caught in a hold-up, was arrested, and got ten years in jail."

"I changed our name immediately, and left the company for another, because of the shame and the scandal connected with our real name."

"Tonight —" Marise's voice shook again—"my old sweetheart tells me how he regretted our quarrel, and how he tried to find me; but I was no longer Marise Miller, but de Rense, and as we never again went near Chicago his hopes of finding me dwindled away. And yet—there was a sad triumph suddenly upon her face—"he never married—and never forgot his early sweetheart."

Goldie said, sharply: "My father? Haven't I the right, in the middle of all this sob stuff about Lingard, to hear where he is, and what happened to him? He must be—out of jail?" Her nostrils quivered on the hateful word.

"He died in the third year of his imprisonment," said Marise quietly. Without another query or glance toward the woman whom she now knew was her mother, Goldie walked out of the room. The world was hateful. She had just learnt she was the daughter of a criminal!

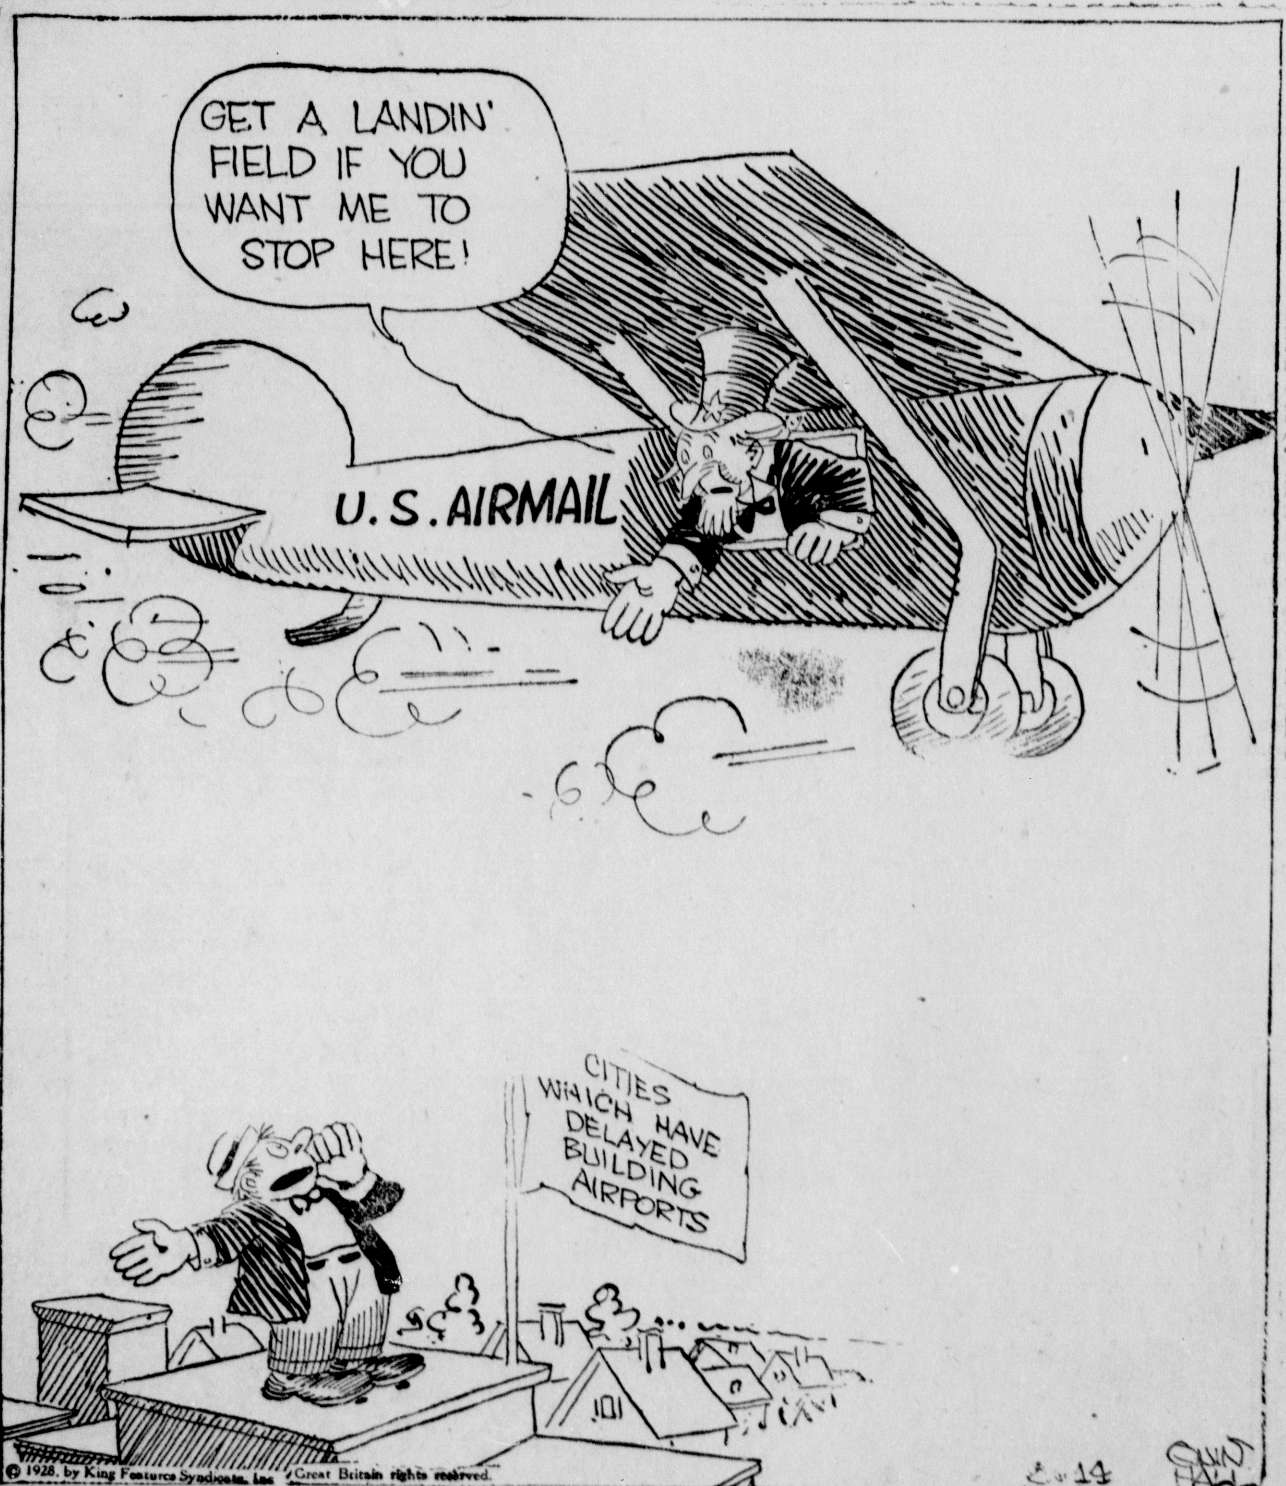

Late that night, on her return from the Harvest Moon club, and worried that Goldie had not put in an appearance there, Marise went to her daughter's bedroom.

On the dressing-table was a scribbled bit of paper. Even before she read it, Marise with a sick pain guessed what had occurred. Her fingers shook uncontrollably, her eyes were a blur.

Goldie had gone! Gone—leaving behind her a cruel message—gone "forever," she wrote, in her anger and resentment, from her mother's house!
